

Friday marks the grand opening of Listo Tax Solutions first franchisees in Dallas Texas and Escondido California. These offices will bring affordable, competent tax preparation services to the local community. They will primarily focus on serving those in the Latino community but have the ability to expand into the Anglo market as demand dictates.

“We are very happy with the inquiries we have already received from the local communities about these two new offices. There is definitely a need for a tax office that understands the tax issues Latino individuals face. These tax issues are very unique to the Latino community and we are offering an outlet for those whom prefer to speak in their family language. Not because they have to, but because they just feel more comfortable doing so,” says Clayton Cathcart, president of Listo Tax Solutions.

Bill Roozée, the Dallas franchise branch President has already been bombarded with questions. “We even have clients knocking on our door on Sunday’s” Roozée says.

Listo Tax Solutions has provided tax preparation services to the Latino community for 14 years. Cathcart said the firm has worked tirelessly to combat the misinformation that often circulates among the community. It is his hope that these two offices will continue to assist in combating that same misinformation that is so prevalent in the Latino communities.
